What if I forget to notify the Placer County Office of Elections of changes to my residence address, name or political party preference?

If you have recently moved or changed your name but have not reregistered to vote, you may not receive important election materials which by law are non-forwardable. In addition, the ballot you receive during an election is based upon your residence address and the precinct/districts in which you reside. Although you are eligible to cast a provisional ballot at the Placer County Office of Elections or any polling place within Placer County on Election Day, by reregistering to vote you help to ensure that your name appears on the roster at your new polling place and that you vote the correct ballot on Election Day.

If it is during a Presidential primary election year and you wish to change your political party preference but have not reregistered to vote, be aware that your ballot will reflect whatever party you are currently registered to.

To find out more about reregistering to vote or for the location of your new polling place, visit our website at How to Vote/Register to Vote or contact the Placer County Office of Elections at 530-886-5650 or toll free in California at 1-800-824-8683.
